Description

The starting point of the tour is the ski touring car park at the Badl Alm in Kalkstein (1640m) in Innervillgraten. From there, first take the forest path towards Alfenalm, turn right shortly before and follow the road north-west into the Roßtal valley to the end of the valley. From there, follow the Kreuzspitze ascent track for a short distance across the wide valley basin in a north-easterly direction. At an altitude of 2200m, turn off to the right at a favourable point and follow moderately steep terrain over wide terrain in an easterly direction with hairpin bends to the Moses summit (Mosesgungge).

The descent follows the ascent track.

Characteristics

The Mosesgungge (or Moses summit) is a much-visited ski summit in the Villgratental valley, also as an alternative to the Kreuzspitze, thanks to the easy ascent and usually good snow conditions. The wide slopes offer marvellous downhill skiing opportunities. Refreshments available after the tour at the Badl-Alm.
