Description

First, follow the Venediger Höhenweg towards the Bonn-Matreier Hut. At the first valley on the left, turn off and follow the footpath to the end. It is important that you then ascend via the left-hand rock gully, as the right-hand gully becomes too steep. As there is a high risk of rockfall in the gully, a helmet is strongly recommended here. Once you reach the ridge, you are still about 150 metres of elevation gain from the summit, which you will tackle over smooth rock. The return journey follows the same route as the ascent.
