Description

Follow the marked path uphill to the Zopetscharte and then head downhill on the other side along the ridge path towards the Johannishütte. Now it gets exciting: leave the main path and head towards the rock face on your left. You'll need a keen eye here: the start of the climb is really hard to spot! Once you've found it, it's a steep climb of around 200 metres to the summit. If you're not absolutely confident in unmarked, high-alpine terrain, you should definitely only undertake this tour accompanied by a mountain guide.
